Lincoln's Birthday celebrates the birthday of Abraham Lincoln, one of the most popular presidents in United States history. It is a state holiday in some states on or around February 12. Lincoln's Birthday in the United States can be traced back to when it was combined with President George Washington's birthday to create Presidents' Day, a day to honor both presidents. Today, the March 14th date commemorates Abraham Lincoln's 209th birthday, a popular day to celebrate the former President's life and legacy.

The day is observed yearly on February 12 in the states of Illinois, Connecticut, Missouri, and New York. Some states observe the day as a legal holiday, while in other states, this day is combined with the commemoration of President George Washington. Abraham Lincoln was the 16th President of the United States, and his birthday is celebrated in various ways across the country. Lincoln's Birthday is a holiday to honor the legacy of Abraham Lincoln, one of the most popular presidents in United States history.